

Teacher Education in Lifelong Learning (TELL)

TELL is a voluntary, self-organized national research network which actively includes practitioners from across the Lifelong Learning (LL) sector with a common interest in Teacher Education.

The network is developing rapidly, and now has over 200 members. The aims are to:

- Capture the passion and distinctive vision which permeates LL Teacher Education
- Raise the profile of and celebrate LL Teacher Education
- Build capacity, support and provide opportunities for practitioner researchers and research in the field of LL Teacher Education
- Connect researchers across the UK with each other
- Promote the achievements and debate the challenges of LL Teacher Education
- Make appropriate use of technology to connect and inform members.
- Curate and collate LL ITE research, history and information including compiling a bank of ideas, publications and resources relating to LL Teacher Education and build

TELL MEETINGS / EVENTS 2014/15 SEPTEMBER 2014

Mon 15/12/14 Gloucester College
Cheltenham Campus

Thurs 29/1/15 University of Hull

Tues 14/4/15 University of Westminster, London

Friday 1/5/15 University of Huddersfield (Special Combined Meeting with TELL, the
Learning and Skills Research Network (LSRN), and a book launch)

All meetings will be FREE of charge, and open to all with an interest in LL Teacher Education research.

As many people from the same institution as wish to come are welcome.

All agendas will include a sector update, showcasing members' research, discussing, reviewing and developing TELL research activity and items added by members.

All meetings run from 10.30 (welcome and coffee) to 3.00

To find out more, or to book a place, email Jim Crawley, TELL Convenor at

j.crawley@bathspa.ac.uk

TO FIND OUT MORE, BOOK FOR ANY EVENT, CONTRIBUTE NEWS, VIEWS AND CONTENT OR
JOIN TELL EMAIL JIM CRAWLEY, FROM BATH SPA UNIVERSITY, WHO IS THE CONVENOR OF TELL AT
j.crawley@bathspa.ac.uk